RPM performance clutch systems have been refined and developed over 20 years for street performance applications. Offering higher torque capacity and the ability to "tune" the system via the use of one of four different types of clutch plate, the RPM clutch system is first choice for street performance. RPM kits are available for more than 3,500 applications (and we're expanding the range). Each kit is a stronger more capable clutch, engineered to enhance your vehicle's performance.

Our clutch system can be further enhanced by the selection of one of four performance clutch plates. Each plate meets a specific driving requirement and builds on the performance characteristics of the RPM cover assembly.
