SERVICE TIPS INJECTOR SERVICING

The humble fuel injector is one of the most important items on your UD Truck engine, but unfortunately it is also one of the most neglected items when it comes to routine servicing.

Example of piston damage

The fuel injectors' job is two fold:

- It sprays the diesel fuel into the cylinder in the correct direction
- It atomises the fuel (creates very small fuel particles) to ensure complete mixing with the air and hence complete combustion

Because of the high temperature and pressure environment that the injectors work in, it is essential that they are serviced regularly. Worn out injectors can cause:

- Fuel leakage into the cylinder after normal injection (dribbling)
- Low pressure injection causing poor combustion due to large fuel droplets (black smoke)
- Incorrect spray pattern causing overloading & overheating of the piston (cracked or melted pistons and damaged cylinder liners)

Any of these problems can lead to very expensive engine damage and time off the road.
